City Will Vote On Lake Bonds Tomorrow

Letter from Reader
Stresses Need of Larger Water Supply

MAIL: Timmo got a nice letter from Orval L. Nelson, who liked a little dissertation we had a few days ago on solidifying all the gas lines into something concrete on industry.

And says Orval: "One of the first steps to prove that we want Harrisburg to grow and become a city that can ask anyone to bring in some sort of industry to go to the polls on the 18th and in large enough numbers to be sure the water project is approved."

Harrisburg built a water supply that was large enough at the time it was built; however, hundreds of new taps have been made and there will be more if water is available for use.

"How can we possibly talk of industries with not enough water to supply household use alone?"

Harrisburg should turn out to approve the water supply to be able to return to some sort of straight thinking, and to be able to say they have at last accomplished something worth while. And then start on another program to bring in some industries. First things first and the water is a first."

MORE MAIL: Here's a letter I got from Peggy M. Holt, 565 Citrus Avenue, Palm City, California:

"Tim: I first read this (she enclosed a clipping) in your column (hurrah!), then heard it on radio, then Neil Morgan had it in the San Diego paper. Then the naval air station paper, The North Islander, had it, every article carrying a different person's name. . . . How many times have you heard it? Just thought you would be interested."

The enclosed clipping was about a story I had lifted from a press story and had passed on to you, and since then I've heard it must have been a wild tale that got all dressed up like straight news.

The story we're speaking about told about the man whose car was stalled and the woman who gave him a push, ramming his car at 35 miles per hour.

The Neil Morgan clipping said: "Memo from a Faithful Copygirl: Dear N. M.—We gratefully acknowledge clippings from the Loyola university paper, the Wall Street Journal, Time, Newsweek and a dozen assorted journals. By the most remarkable coincidences, helpful woman motorists in a hundred cities were ramming stalled cars with automatic transmissions last month so they could push them at 35 miles an hour. Despite the assertions of five Crosstown readers that they saw such a thing happen, Crosstown must join in a regretful assumption that the incident was apocryphal. Awful funny, though."

(*apocryphal, says Mr. Webster, means "unauthentic, spurious, fabulous." Why didn't they say so?)

HUMOR DEPT.: Son—Pa, what is jaywalking?

Pa—Son, it's a kind of exercise that brings on that run-down feeling.

Durham to Speak Over WSIL-TV Tonight To Support Lake Drive

Civic leaders will go to the television tonight to show local voters why they should vote in favor of the Lake Harrisburg ample-water proposal.

Ray Durham, local businessman, will speak over WSIL-TV at 8:30 p.m. and the public is urged to hear his discussion.

Tonight at 6 p.m. Jack Davenport of the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce will speak on the issue over WEBQ. Last night Charlie Rauh of the Lions club spoke over WEBQ.

VFW Elects Officers, Votes Lake Support

At the meeting of the V. F. W. Post 3642 Tuesday night the following officers were elected: Hollie Stout, commander; Harry Dutton, senior vice; Robert Hull, junior vice; Cecil Cusick, quartermaster; Wayne Shaw, chaplain; John Ham, adjutant; Stanley Medley, trustee, and Paul Golish, trustee.

Members who were present at the meeting also voted 100 per cent to support the Lake Harrisburg project.

Break Up Ten Million Dollar Narcotics Ring

Predict Panic by Chicago Users As Raids Cut Supply

CHICAGO — The supply of narcotics flowing to thousands of Chicago addicts was shut off like a running faucet today when federal and local agents broke up a 10-million-dollar heroin ring.

Seven men were seized in raids Tuesday night and early today and accused of being ringleaders in the narcotics gang. Four men already in custody were charged with working for the ring.

A panic among local addicts was predicted Albert E. Aman, chief of the federal narcotics unit in Chicago, when the "users" find their major source of supply has been damaged.

Many of the go-between retail salesmen of the ring were still at large and it was believed they would continue to supply addicts at least until the weekend.

Buy Heroin For Evidence

But, unless the ring can reorganize and import more heroin from the East, Chicago addicts will be suffering badly by next week, authorities said.

Police said a rash of drugstore and doctors' office robberies was more than likely if a new wholesale group failed to materialize.

Heroin users suffer intensely if they are forced to go without the narcotic. Many of them might be forced to present themselves to authorities for aid.

They are legally required to register as addicts, as it is.

The federal government spent between $50,000 and $100,000 to crack the ring, buying heroin for evidence at up to $400 an ounce. Secret agents made the purchase.

About 30 ounces of heroin also were confiscated in the raids.

50 Agents in Raids

The raids were the result of six months of careful undercover work, authorities said.

At least 50 federal narcotics agents, deputy U.S. marshals, Chicago policemen and Treasury Department Secret Service men participated in the raids.

One of the arrested men was Anthony Pape, 40, who has a record of 22 arrests since 1929. Authorities said he was suspected of being the ringleader of the group.

The narcotics ring, which "wholesaled" heroin to "pushers" or illicit salesmen, sold about 10 million dollars worth of the stuff a year, Aman said.

The raids netted suspects in various parts of the city—at drug stores, street corners and other places.

Authorities said the other men arrested were: Frank (Shorty) Coduto, 42, with a record of 17 arrests; Joe (Little Joe) Laelio, 32; Anthony Spera, 32; Anthony Ponzi, 38, with a record of 37 arrests; Anthony (Dino) Schullo, 44, with a record of 18 arrests; and Roy Pinnia, 35.

Already in custody on other charges were Harold Paterson, 40, in County Jail on confidence game charges; Lucky Dean, 58, in jail on an earlier narcotics charge; Norman Dale Smith, 25, in jail on a robbery charge, and Arthur White, 35, also held for robbery.

Regional Postal Headquarters to Be Set Up Soon

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has announced plans to set up a regional postal headquarters at Chicago in mid-April and six other regional offices later.

The Chicago office will supervise 3,345 post offices in Michigan, Wisconsin and all of Illinois except Rock Island, Henry and Whiteside counties. District offices, operating under the Chicago headquarters will be established at Milwaukee, Green Bay and Oshkosh, Wis.; Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich., and Chicago, Peoria and East St. Louis, Ill.

The regional offices are part of the Post Office Department's pro-

Meek Claims

Backing of Cook
County Groups

CHICAGO — Supporters of Joseph T. Meek today claimed the backing of 15 ward and 15 township GOP organizations in Cook County in his campaign for the Republican nomination for U. S.
Senator.

State Sen. Arthur B. Bidwill (R-River Forest) listed the names of 10 townships and said that identification of the other organizations was being upheld temporarily until their positions on other primary races are arranged.

Among the nine candidates for the nomination, Austin L. Wyman gave his support to President Eisenhower's tax program. Edward A. Hayes warned against taking Communists and fellow travelers lightly, and Edgar M.
Elbert and Meek both attacked
Sen. Paul H. Douglas, who is running for re-election.

Elbert said Douglas' campaign is an example of the "deficit financing at which the professor is so adept." Commenting on a remark by Douglas that a race for senator costs $250,000, Elbert said it is "strange" that Douglas could spend that much money running for a $15,000 a year job.

A representative for Julius Klein, who is on a downstate speaking tour, told the Deerfield Shields
Women's Republican club that Klein favors a big Air Force, a strong National Guard and a powerful Army reserve as the key stones of defense.

Talent Project Is Undertaken By
Mother Thomson Guild

Mrs. Ted Wolfe, 406 West South street, was hostess to the Mother Thompson Guild of the First Methodist church on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Sam Leberman and Mrs. Richard Schwartz assisted the hostess.

The meeting opened with an impressive circle prayer offered by members. Mrs. Glenn Wallace and Mrs. Schwartz led the devotion with Mrs. Leberman as piano accompanist for hymn singing. The lesson given by Mrs. Cecil Pankey featured a panel discussion, participating in which were Mrs. Darrel Piper, Mrs. Wolfe and Mrs. Harold Parker, Guild president. Mrs. John Schork reviewed another church's talent project.

During the business session dollars were distributed and individual talent plans proposed. Mrs. Hillie Stokes was appointed chairman of the nominating committee. Approval was given of a life mem-

Yankees Drop Seven of Ten Spring Tilts; Dodgers Win Seven Straight

By United Press

The New York Yankees were off to one of the worst spring training seasons in their history today—and their rivals wondered if General Manager George Weiss called the turn with his charge of com-pacency.

The world champions, criticized by Weiss as "too complacent" when training started, have dropped 7 of 10 exhibition games and suffered a virtual paralysis at bat. They've averaged only 3.8 runs a game and tallied more than five runs in only one contest.

Manager Casey Stengel, although disturbed by the continued failure to flash peak form, said he believed the Yankees would snap out of their coma when they meet the Brooklyn Dodgers Thursday. "The mere sight of the Dodgers always seems to do something to our boys," Stengel said.

Dodgers Win Seventh Straight

But, meanwhile, Stengel had little to cheer about. Tuesday's 5-3 loss to the Detroit Tigers was the Yankees' third straight and fifth in six games. They've tallied a total of 18 runs in the six games while allowing a total of 31.

Ed Lopat allowed one run and five hits in his three-inning debut and right-hander Harry Byrd struck out five Tigers in his five innings only to have the Bengals rally with three runs off Art Schalock in the ninth to gain the triumph.

The Dodgers, apparently warming up for their series with the Yankees, beat the Washington Senators, 3-2, for their seventh straight triumph. Ken Lehman, Ron Negray and Russ Meyer limited the Senators, who have lost seven straight, to five hits.

Kryhoski Injured

The high-flying Baltimore Orioles gained and lost a first-baseman within a matter of hours. They purchased Eddie Waitkus from the Philadelphia Phillies in early afternoon but learned Dick Kryhoski would be sidelined at least four weeks with a fractured wrist before sundown. Kryhoski was hit by a pitched ball on Monday but the X-rays didn't disclose the break to five hits.

The Boston Red Sox, who started their exhibition schedule with five straight wins, suffered their fifth loss in a row when they bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1. Hal Rice's fifth-inning home run produced the decisive run as the Pirates made it six victories in nine games.

HTHS Freshmen Win Tourney At McLeansboro

Trip Host Team,
44-43, with Final
Seconds Free Throw

The HTHS freshman basketball team last night won first place in the McLeansboro frosh tournament, defeating the host McLeansboro team 44-43 in a thriller.

The score was tied at 43-43 with 30 seconds to go and Harrisburg made a free throw to go into the lead. McLeansboro then took the ball down the floor and shot, but Wayne Stone deflected the ball out of bounds and the game was over before another shot could be taken.

Carrier Mills won the game for third place, defeating Eldorado in another close tilt.

Harrisburg led 10-7 at the quarter and 22-13 at halftime but McLeansboro outscored the locals 17 to 11 in the third period to move into contention.

McLeansboro had a very good freshman team this year and John VanderPlum, local frosh coach, was complimented for coping the tourney and bringing home a first place trophy for the Davenport gym trophy cases.

Bring Back Irish Boxers, Dempsey Urges

NEW YORK — Jack Dempsey, still a fine broth of man despite his advancing years, today marked St. Patrick's Day by crusading for the return of Irish-American fighters.

"Let's bring the Irish back to boxing," said the former world's heavyweight champion. "I meant the real fighting Irish of my time. They were the guys who always attracted the big crowds and kept the sport going."

Seated at a table in his midtown restaurant, the 58-year old Manassa Mauler then went on to explain it was fighters like Gene Tunney, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker and Jimmy McLarnin who helped keep the turnstiles clicking.

"And how about my two fights with Tunney?" Dempsey asked proudly. "The first fight drew almost two million dollars and the second was over $2,500,000. They were naturals and so were others involving Walker, Loughran, McLarnin, Mike McGinnis and Jimmy Braddock."

Revive Smaller Clubs

"An Irishman always is willing to pay to see a good fight," Jack continued, "especially if one of his own is in there throwing the punches."

Asked how the Irish can be enticed back into the ring, Dempsey was quick to answer.

"First, something has to be done about reviving the smaller fight clubs," he said. "That way more kids can get a chance at fighting and they can be brought along slower. Now they're rushed into the big-time before they even learn how to fight. And the quicker they're brought up the quicker they go down."

Dempsey then was asked if he'd care to pick the outstanding Irish fighters who have held championships down through the years.

"That's always a good way to start a fight, and my fighting days are over," he said with a wide smile. "Just say the Irish were the best champs. That way we won't start a new war."

Incidentally, Equality will participate in both track and baseball this spring. Baseball is enjoying a renewed interest, largely due to the construction of a new diamond just north of the school building. The ground is being leveled and a backstop will be placed soon. The centerfield line is expected to extend some 290 feet from home plate. If Coach "Kayo" Willis can instill some of his diamond know-how into the Equality athletes, the school may come up with a contender. Willis was an outstanding hurler during his college days.

Work is also progressing on the new Equality gymnasium. All signs of the wreckage have disappeared, and most of the excavating has been completed, preparatory to the laying of the foundation. Work is expected to commence on this phase in the very near future, and the entire structure is slated for completion by next fall.

Says President Could Order Retaliation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday President Eisenhower has authority—without consulting Congress—to order retaliation for any attack on the United States or North Atlantic Treaty or Latin American nations.

But Dulles quickly added that this doesn't mean Mr. Eisenhower necessarily would act without getting congressional approval. He said it would depend upon circumstances surrounding such an attack.

Mr. Dulles made these statements in a lengthy news conference discussion of the United States defense policy of instant retaliation.

Dulles said it was lack of the capacity to strike back immediately that accounted for Pearl Harbor.

In his opinion, he said, if the United States had this necessary capacity there would have been no Pearl Harbor.

Dulles also said:

There is evidence that Moscow is employing delaying tactics in connection with the Far East conference scheduled to open in Geneva April 26, and there is a chance the conference might be delayed.

The Caracas Inter-American conference "has made history" by adopting an anti-Communist resolution. Dulles said it was time such action was taken "because international communism is making great efforts to extend its political control to this hemisphere."

No decision has been made yet on the case of career diplomat John Paton Davies Jr., who is undergoing a security check.

Sen. Van Hooser Discusses Need For Highways; Favors Toll Road

Senator Arthur Van Hooser of Metropolis, chairman of the Illinois Senate Highway committee, believes that most citizens are more tax conscious than road minded "and the attitude on the part of the people is a major hurdle that must be removed before we can inaugurate a highway program to meet the ever-increasing traffic demands."

Speaking earlier this month before the highway engineers conference at the College of Engineering of the University of Illinois, Sen. Van Hooser stated the public must be informed as to how much our inadequate highways cost in taxes, in wear and tear on equipment, on higher insurance rates and the horrors of possible injury, hospitalization and death.

"Then," he declared, "they must be told how much additional, if any, it will cost for better driving conditions and how better highways will increase property values, attract new industries, help communities grow, and to what extent they will personally benefit."

Must Nail Down Funds

Pointing to the 300 million dollars which is the estimated amount needed for highways per year, he indicated the state needs to raise $30 million additional dollars. Ways to raise it, he said, could be thru bond issues, a higher property tax, increase in motor vehicle taxes, but he declared property taxes are at the point of oppression and motor vehicle license fees are higher than those in neighboring states and added:

"We are now collecting from the highway users sufficient funds for all our road requirements, if we can nail down these funds by law for highway purposes only."

"For instance," he continued, "not considering the federal excise tax on new automobiles, the federal government collects from the road users of Illinois more than 70 million dollars per year in the form of two cents per gallon on gasoline, five per cent on lubricating oil, five per cent on automobile accessories and three per cent on truck freight, about one-third of which is being returned to the state at the whim of congress."

Faith in Toll Roads

"The national government should either retire from at least these fields of taxation, or return the monies thus collected to the states."

Indicating his faith in toll highways and revealing his plan which would affect southern Illinois, the senator closed his address with this statement:

"As the author of the 1943 and 1953 Toll Highways acts, I am naturally watching with keen interest the progress of this class of highways, and I sincerely hope that under the able direction of Chairman Howell and his co-workers the feasibility report will prove that it is sound and practical to construct several hundred miles of toll highways and that the commission will give special consideration to a highway extending from Chicago to the Southern tip of the state, following the general traffic pattern of U. S. 45. The state is losing too much revenue, due to the absence of an adequate highway, to capture the automobile traffic to and from the northern and southern states, which is now being routed over Indiana's U. S. 41 by the travel agents of both north and south."

Wipe off fresh fruit with a clean, damp cloth before storing. This cleaning helps check rot which may have been transferred from other fruits at the market.

To remove mildew from wood-work, wipe the surface with a cloth dipped in water to which a little kerosene has been added.

at the age of 23. His father, he admitted, was chairman of the board. He also became executive vice president of three theaters, he acknowledged, by his father.

It was the reporting of these facts which McCarthy called "screaming."

Answer: For months, both the Eisenhower administration and Republican senators have either been afraid or unwilling to tangle with McCarthy, even to make suggestions regarding his staff.

Question: Why did Senator McCarthy seriously believe that the Army should fear 27-year-old Roy Cohn? What was there that a 27-year-old lawyer could do to an organization that has never been defeated? Why did McCarthy suggest to the Army that it faced a long-range fight with Cohn, if it didn't transfer Pvt. Schine to New York? It's possible McCarthy thought Cohn could throw these influences against the Army, or else he thought the Army could be frightened into thinking so.

Answer: Cohn was on intimate terms with Walter Winchell, and was the pipeline by which McCarthy got Winchell's support and fed Winchell items. Cohn also has contacts with right-wing columnist George Sokolsky and newspaper executive Dick Berlin, who formerly employed Dr. J. B. Matthews, the McCarthy committee counsel who was dropped after he alleged the Protestant clergy was riddled with Communists.

Question: Did Roy Cohn flex his muscles for Walter Winchell by calling James Wechsler, editor of the New York Post before the McCarthy committee after Wechsler printed a series of articles on Winchell.

Answer: Wechsler is the only leading editor ever called before the McCarthy committee. In newspaper circles this crackdown was considered a Cohn move to curry favor with Winchell.

Question: Is McCarthy afraid of Roy Cohn? Why did McCarthy tell the Army to show no favoritism to Schine when Cohn was absent, then reverse himself in Cohn's presence? Why did McCarthy make it clear to the Army he didn't want Cohn to know he considered Schine a pest?

COHN KNOWN BURIED BODIES

Answer: Cohn knew all the secrets of the McCarthy investigation. He knew all the bodies buried by the McCarthy committee. He also knew the personal problems, had sat in on at least one conference where McCarthy debated what he should do about the Las Vegas Sun and extraordinary allegations it published regarding his personal life which cannot be repeated here. In brief Cohn knew all there was to know about McCarthy.

Question: What parts of the Cohn conversations with the Army were censored? The Army's original report on the "Schine case" was about 72 pages long, but only 34 pages were published. What was left out?

Answer: Some of the language used by Cohn was unprintable. Also in cases where John Adams, the Army attorney, or his colleagues felt they might have had hazy memories, the hazy portions of the record were omitted.

EUROPEAN JUNKET

Question: Why the persistent attachment of Cohn for Schine? Why was he almost savage in his demands that Schine be transferred back to New York?

Answer: The two have been inseparable friends for some time.

Schine is 26 years old, had no important experience as an investigator, served with the McCarthy committee without salary. Cohn liked to have him around, took him to Europe on a trip that would have been comic had it not so disrupted U. S. relations.

WHY DRAFTED?

Question: Since every American diplomat reported on the ac-

Pankeyville Home Bureau Unit Changes Name

The Pankeyville Home Bureau unit met at the home of Mrs. Jack Wise Friday evening for the regular meeting.

Roll call was answered with "an improved home practice I've learned from Home Bureau." The major topic, "Kitchen Storage," was presented by the home adviser, Mary Harper, and the minor topic, "Program Planning," was given by Mrs. J. C. Gasaway, program chairman.

During the business meeting the group voted to change the name of the unit to "Happy Homemakers." Three new members, Mrs. Hillary Hamm, Mrs. C. C. Lightner and Mrs. Willard Perkins, were admitted to the unit.

Others present were Mrs. Leo Anderson, a visitor, Mrs. Priestly and Hilliard, Mrs. James Wise, Mrs.

Refreshments of cake and punch were served following the meeting.

Carrier Mills unit will meet with the Happy Homemakers April 8 at the home of Mrs. Lowden Perkins.

Home Bureau Executive Board Holds Meeting

Twenty-four unit officers and members of the Home Bureau executive board met Monday at the home of the county chairman, Mrs. Walter Unsell, for a potluck luncheon which was followed by a county membership meeting.

The county enrollment was reviewed with each unit vice chairman listing prospective members within her own area. One of the objectives set up was the building of small units to an enrollment of 15. Each unit accepted a quota of prospects to be contacted prior to April 1st. A county membership drive will continue during the period of March 15 through April 1. New units are always welcomed.

Any persons interested in Home Bureau work may contact the Home Bureau office or any Home Bureau member whom she may know.

Those attending the membership meeting were Mrs. Ellis Fox, county vice chairman; Mrs. Robert Bradley Jr., Mrs. Louis Gaskins, Mrs. Noble Williams, Mrs. L. B. Kimmel, Mrs. Everett Porter, Mrs. Clarence Barton, Mrs. Truman Keel, Mrs. J. J. ## Spring Trends in Furniture Keyed To Smaller Scale, More Graceful Lines

In all categories of furniture—modern, contemporary, traditional and provincial—the tendency this Spring is toward graceful lines, a smaller and more easily manipulated scale and the use of richly colored, subtly textured materials.

The new furniture is made to endow smaller rooms with an uncluttered look. Multiple-purpose pieces, easy to keep clean, light to move and adaptable to a variety of settings, are an outstanding feature.

Because many people prefer to start with a few basic pieces and add to them later, open stock furnishings are more easily available. Because the population boasts an older average age, furniture respects the needs of older people by giving special attention to comfort and lightness.

Modern furniture is less self-consciously modern. It has taken

Marratt's mind, sitting in judgment, rebelled against the irony of spending his life in prison for what he had done to Hugh Clagg because of Charlie while Clagg's partner, meriting a like fate, went his way untouched and unrepentant because he happened to be the father of Naome. "It was too much to ask of human nature."

Marratt's mind, sitting in judgment, rebelled away with him and, crouching beside the spring where he was camped, proceeded to clean his face of whiskers. He left only the roan patch of a mustache, having generally worn one before his trouble with Clagg.

While he was hunting his pockets for the rest of the checks assembled by Naome from the reservation files he came across the badge he had taken off Hanna; and he held quiet for an interval morosely considering it. Only this bent piece of metal had stood between himself and a hole in the ground when Crafkin's lead had hammered him into the grass of Jake's dooryard.

Better, Marratt thought bitterly, to have croaked then and there than be faced with a future cursed with memories of a girl who could never be more to him than she had. For, no matter what course he finally took with her father, he could not ask Naome to share the fate of a brush-running fugitive. And there was nothing else in the cards for Grete Marratt but Yuma.

He cocked a look at the sky and loosed a long breath that must have come pretty near up from his bootheels. He checked over the loads in his pistol, reckoning he might just as well get about it.

He knew where to find Ryerson, had been nursing this knowledge for the past 20 hours. Before he'd turned south away from Usher's that day he had lifted a pair of high-powered binoculars from Crafkin's saddle and with these he had kept Naome's movements under constant surveillance till he'd found the man holed-up at Stradille Bug, one of the spreads which Ryerson, through Crafkin, had taken over.

No crew was being maintained there and Naome herself had ridden off about an hour ago.

He cinched the hull on the gray and thrust a boot in the stirrup. Funny, he mused, how things kept coming back to you; little things, insignificant trifles which a man ought long ago to have forgotten. The weary lift of tired eyes across the length of a store porch . . . the tremulous shape of a girl's twisted smile.

Marratt growled and ground his teeth, then slammed the horse into action.

Raising a spurless heel above the horn of his saddle Marratt dropped to earth with eyes bleak as a gun fighter's. He loosened the weight that was sagging his shell belt and stepped onto the veranda, hollow sound rumbling out of the planks as he moved doorward—sound which fled into the hard stillness around him.

The painless door was pulled open with a groan from dry hinges and Ryerson's face was staring into his own. The man had aged 10 years since that day on the store porch. "You needn't worry," Marratt said. "I didn't come here to kill you."

The ranchman's eyes smiled tightly. "I didn't suppose you had." He stepped back from the door. "Come in, Marratt. I've been expecting you."

Marratt looked at him suspiciously. "I imagine so," he said grimly, and raked his glance about warily as he followed the man down an uncarpeted hall.

Turning into what had evidently been the ranch office, Ryerson sat on a chair and dropped into another behind a desk that was cluttered with papers. "You didn't hear from my daughter?"

"I've been camped in the hills ever since that fight."

"She left a couple notes at Usher's asking you to come here."

"Did she tell you my name was Marratt?"

Ryerson nodded. "But I had already placed you. You'll remember I called you 'Luke' that day in town. I supposed you were Luke; as such I could understand your refusal to shake and the terrible look which flashed out of your eyes when you advised me the next time we met to be armed. Riding home, however, I recalled a picture I had once come across in a paper about a killing in Prescott."

"Then you admit to having been there?"

The ranchman stared at him curiously. "Of course I've been to Prescott. As it happens, I was there just before you came to trial." Ryerson's voice and features expressed bewilderment. "Now you're looking as you did that day in Bella Loma."

"How did you expect me to look?"

"I don't get it," Ryerson said. "Why should you look as if killing me would give you pleasure? You're not Luke Usher."

"This will freshen up your memory," Marratt drawled and he recounted the story as he had gotten it from Charlie.

"So that was the way of it.... I don't wonder you killed Clagg, but to spend five years in Yuma..." he shook his head. "And all this time you've been thinking I—"

"Do you deny it?"

"Certainly. Most vigorously. I wasn't within miles of the place."

"The girl described you as Clagg's partner."
